EXPLANATORY NOTES

This bill amends mainly the Environment Quality Act to give the Government the power to require any person, including any person operating an industrial or commercial establishment, who generates residual materials by their activities to develop and implement a selective collection system and a deposit system for certain such materials, and to see to the financing of those systems.

The bill gives the Government the powers necessary to regulate the development, implementation and financing of the selective collection system and the deposit system.

The bill also gives the Government the power to mandate a non-profit body to take on the responsibility for developing, implementing and financing, in the place and stead of specific persons, all actions necessary to ensure the operation of the systems. The Government may, in particular, specify the rules regarding the designation of the body, the body's obligations, rights and responsibilities and the obligations, rights and responsibilities that the persons have with respect to the body.

The bill repeals the provisions of the Environment Quality Act concerning the compensation paid to municipalities and certain Aboriginal communities for the services they provide respecting the recovery and reclamation of residual materials, and the Act respecting the sale and distribution of beer and soft drinks in non-returnable containers.

Lastly, the bill contains a monetary administrative penalty and a penal sanction, as well as transitional provisions.
